A MESSAGE FROM CHIEF WENDY JOCKO

Dear Members of Pikwakanagan First Nation,

We have heard for many years that members of Pikwakanagan are looking for increased frequency and quality of communications from your Chief and Council. This recurring letter, as well as videos, other materials made available to the membership, the AOPFN website and social media are all examples of our efforts to improve our communications.

This week, we welcome our new Communications Specialist to the organization, Lisa Meness. Ms. Meness offers a wealth of experience and knowledge as a former employee and Chief. Please join me in welcoming Lisa to the team.

The addition of a dedicated position in Communications will undoubtedly bring us closer to the standards that you, the membership, and others expect from AOPFN. Especially during COVID19, communications must evolve, adapt, and improve so that we do not lose sight of our priorities and our connections that guide us on our track to the future we all envision.

Speaking of vision and adaptation, Chief and Council, along with the Self Government team, will be hosting a Community Meeting/Information session on January 28 at 6pm on Zoom. This session also includes a portion of the Pike and Sturgeon Head teaching, the original Algonquin constitution, which was rescheduled due to COVID19. Shannon Chief from Barriere Lake Algonquins will be joining the session to provide this teaching. I am looking forward to a virtual community meeting and I am grateful for the technology that allows us to connect in this way despite stay-at-home orders.

As some Renfrew County children and youth prepare for the return to in-person learning on January 25, the flow of wisdom from health experts and advisors will ensure that this is done in the safest way possible. I feel constant gratitude for the resilience and capacity of our health care system and all front-line workers keeping the essential services afloat. As vaccines become available and we become more aware and disciplined in our personal behaviours, there is an end in sight.

Wendy Jocko, Chief

Thank You

On behalf of Evelyn (Mom) and Lawrence, the family would like to extend their warmest thanks to all those who supported us through this very difficult time.

Losing family members is never easy. This is especially true following long illnesses, which require sustained strength, hope and resilience on part of those who care of them.

Knowing that we were in the thoughts of our friends, extended family and the community was a great comfort. We would like to start by thanking everyone who visited and sent their prayers, condolences, and messages of love and support over these past weeks. A special thank you to Brian, Nahum, and Meiyah for their beautiful honour songs for Mom and Lawrence as well.

We would also like to thank all those who provided food to the family to ensure we kept up our strength – your generosity and thoughtfulness was appreciated more than you could know.

To Zohr's Funeral Home and to Father Ken, thank you for helping the family to grieve and come together in a safe way to say good-bye to Mom and Lawrence. Your kind support, flexibility and willingness to help us during this time of loss is truly appreciated.

Finally, to the staff of the Tennesco Manor and Health Services, thank you from the bottom of our hearts for your compassion and watchful care over Evelyn (Mom) and Lawrence on their journey. We would like to extend our love and appreciation to the staff. We will never forget how you lovingly supported all of us. CHI MEGWETCH!

BURIAL GROUNDS

Our families who have passed have been laid to rest in our burial grounds. These grounds are sacred yet there have been people who have pulled down the fence and have an ATV and Snowmobile trail down the middle of the grounds.

We ask that you respect our deceased family members and if you see anyone using our sacred grounds for these purposes, please ask them to stop.

3 EASY STEPS TO WATCH YOUR SUGAR

INTAKE

1. Bake more often (include the whole family) and play around with your favorite sweet treat recipes: Making your own sweet treat allows you to adjust the sugar content yourself.
 - Reduce up to ¼ to a ⅓ of the sugar in your recipe – with most recipes you can take away this amount without a big difference.
 - Use applesauce or mashed bananas to replace some of the sugar and fat in cookies and muffins.
 - Using fruit such as raisins, dried apricots, dates, or bananas instead of sugar.
 - If a recipe calls for canned fruits, look for those packed in water instead of sugar.
 - If a recipe calls for jams or jellies, look for those that are unsweetened.
2. Watch what you drink: Drinks account for just over a third of adults' daily sugar intake and almost half of the average daily sugar intake of children and adolescents.
 - Limit sweetened cold beverages such as soft drinks, energy drinks, flavored fruit drinks, flavored water, sports drinks, ice tea.
 - Limit sweetened hot beverages such as hot chocolate, specialty coffees.
 - Limit sweetened milks, sweetened plant-based beverages, and specialty alcoholic/party beverages.
 - Choose any one of the many traditional herbal teas.
 - Choose water; flavor your water with a slice of lemon, orange, lime, strawberries, or a sprig of fresh mint.
3. Read the food labels
 - In the Nutrition Facts Table section: Look for the % DV (Daily Value). Limit foods with a % DV of 15% or more of sugar (5% DV is a little, 15% DV is a lot).
 - In the Ingredient list section: All the different types of sugars are grouped together in the ingredient list to make it easier to see just how much sugar is in a food. If sugars are listed as the first or second ingredient on a food label, the food is high in sugar because ingredients are listed in order of weight. Beginning with the ingredient that weighs the most, and ending with the ingredient that weighs the least.
 - In the Nutrient content claims section: Look for words like "reduced in sugar," "lower in sugar", "sugar-free", "sugarless", "no added sugar" or "unsweetened" on processed, packaged, and convenience foods.

Becoming more aware of what we put into our bodies allows us to make more informed decisions about the foods we eat. What we want to nourish our bodies with may start to change with that awareness as well. I am here to support you with the nutritional changes you are wanting to make. I am also here to connect you with other professionals that can also support you. To connect, please email me at diabetic.navigators@pikwakanagan.ca

DIABETES SUPPORT GROUP ONLINE

Hello all, before the initial lockdown I had started a diabetes support group. We were able to meet a handful of times before social distancing protocols halted our meetings. Please contact me at diabetic.navigators@pikwakanagan.ca if you are interested.

We will be discussing setting healthy goals and implementing action plans to create a wonderful, healthy 2021.
